J. F. Terwilliger Missing From Home Three Days

By Paul Carlson
MILFORD — The body of J. Foster Terwilliger, 52-year-old publisher of The Milford Dispatch, was recovered from the Delaware River near here Saturday. He had been missing since Thursday.

Discovery of the body off Anderson's Landing culminated a search by State Police and more than 60 volunteer firemen.

Dr. Jack Bullock, Pike County coroner, said death was caused by drowning. "As far as we can ascertain," he added, "it was a suicide."

Publisher of the century-old weekly newspaper for many years, Mr. Terwilliger was prominent in Democratic politics and served formerly as chief of the Milford Fire Department.

Although he had been missing since Thursday morning, State Police were not informed of the fact until his car was found in a wooded area near the Delaware River at 1:45 p.m. Saturday.

Sgt. Edgar Stine and Trooper John McCarthy of the Milford

Substation went to the area immediately. They were accompanied by Deputy Coroner James Crellin.

A preliminary investigation failed to uncover Terwilliger's whereabouts, so State Police called upon Milford, Matamoras and Port Jervis firemen to join in the search.

About 60 volunteers combed the vicinity where the victim's car was discovered. When this proved fruitless, small boats were used to drag the river.

About 5 p.m., the search was over. Terwilliger's body was discovered by Calvin Rosencrance, James Crellin and Randolph Gregory of the Milford Fire Department.

At 5:05 p.m., the body was pulled to the surface by a Port Jervis volunteer, Michael Latali, who dove into the water after the corpse was located.

Dr. Bullock examined the body at the scene and again at the Stroyan & Crellin Funeral Home.

State Police said the victim had been despondent for some time.

Terwilliger, who recently became affiliated with the weekly division of the Pennsylvania Newspaper Publishers Assn., joined the newspaper in 1927 after serving as a teacher in the Pike County schools.

The newspaper was published by his father, Josiah F. Terwilliger, before he became associated with it.

Terwilliger attended Milford High School, and was later graduated by East Stroudsburg State Teachers College. He reportedly left the teaching profession to join his father's business at the request of his mother, the late Bertha Wood Terwilliger.

In addition to his association with the fire company, Terwilliger was a member of the Port Jervis Lodge, BPO Elks, and was a vestryman at the Episcopal Church of the Good Shepherd in Milford.

His first wife, the former Irene Hoffman, died five years ago. His second wife, the former Florence Fitzgerald, survives him. He is also survived by two sisters, Mrs. Bertha Tower, Port Jervis, and Mrs. Violet Clune, Milford.

Funeral services will be held at 2 p.m. today at the Church of the Good Shepherd with Rev. Richard Asefod officiating. Burial will be in the Milford Cemetery.

Senators Ask Ike To Reduce Foreign Aid

WASHINGTON, May 12 (U-P) — A powerful Senate committee called on President Eisenhower tonight to scale down his foreign aid program to even lower levels.

It recommended continuance of military and economic assistance, but in an amount below the $3,880,000,000 urged by the President last week when he lopped 500 million dollars off previous requests.

The report was made public by a special committee made up of all members of the Foreign Relations Committee, plus the chairmen and ranking members of the Appropriations and Armed Services committees.

It called for tighter co-ordination and a streamlining of the various foreign aid programs to increase their effectiveness as military defense and to lower their total cost to the U.S. taxpayers.

The report came as the President continued preparations for two nationwide radio-TV appeals in behalf of his embattled $71,800,000,000 budget. The first is to be made Tuesday night. The second is scheduled for the week of May 19, and will be devoted almost entirely to foreign aid.

The committee, of which 89-year-old Sen. Green (D-RI) is chairman, did not set a specific figure for foreign aid reductions. But the foreign relations committee will consider cuts when it starts hearings May 22 on the President's recommendations.

Eisenhower is asking $1,900,000,000 to provide planes, tanks and other arms to allies, and 900 million in defense support for those countries. In addition he wants $1,080,000,000 in strictly nonmilitary aid, of which 500 million would be applied to loans for economic development.

While approving the emphasis on loans instead of grants, the committee warned against "haste" in setting up a "permanent" fund for that purpose.

The administration wants three-year authority with the idea of having 500 million dollars available for the year starting July 1 and 750 million for each of the succeeding two years.

The committee recommended that Congress go slow in making military aid authorizations for the years ahead until such aid is "well adjusted to our total strategy of defense."

Until this question is clarified, it said Congress should retain the benefit of "its annual review of military aid policy." The same is true of defense support, it said, since long-range authority would "raise dangers of an undue expansion" and "excessive demands" on this country's resources.

Republicans Trim Budget

HARRISBURG, May 12 (U-P) — A Republican-trimmed budget of $1,420,000,000 shaped up today as the GOP answer to Pennsylvania's spending program for the two-year period starting June 1.

Chairman Norman Wood (R-Lancaster), of the House Appropriations Committee said the figure will leave some 80 millions to absorb Gov. Leader's expected deficit for the present biennium and still keep the budget within 1 1/2 billion dollars available without new state taxes.

"It will mean that some meritorious proposals must be deferred in the coming biennium, but there is no other way to keep down government spending," Wood said in a weekend statement.

Jordan Hurls Fresh Charge At Russia

AMMAN, Jordan, May 12 (U-P) — Blunt Jordanian charges of a Red conspiracy to dethrone four Middle East monarchs pointed up the rift within the Egyptian-led Arab bloc today.

Though Jordan wants nothing to do with the Eisenhower Doctrine, the official government radio last night broadcast as facts a declaration that Soviet Russia, Egypt and Syria were participants in the plot.

The targets were identified as the rulers of Iraq, Saudi Arabia, Libya and Jordan, whose young King Hussein nipped a potentially dangerous political crisis with the backing of his tough Bedouin troops last month.

Egyptian money was reported to have been paid for an attempt to assassinate Hussein.

President Nasser's Egyptian government, which promoted a pre-Suez alliance of Egypt, Jordan, Syria and Saudi Arabia ostensibly aimed against Israel, has declared Egypt "is as jealous of Jordan's independence as any other country." But bitter attacks on the little kingdom are voiced by the Egyptian press and radio, which picture it as "one vast prison camp."

The Jordan radio station, Amman's answer to Cairo's powerful "Voice of the Arabs," gave full play to a story on Middle East intrigue published by the independent Amman newspaper Al-Urdun.

Allegations of a plot against his own monarchy were made in a broadcast by King Hussein when he proclaimed martial law at the height of the April crisis. But he gave no details.

Quoting what it called most reliable sources, Al-Urdun said the whole scheme was hatched at a Cairo meeting in January 1956 of Egyptian diplomatic envoys to Arab countries.

Tears Highlight Mother's Day

LANSFORD, May 12 (U-P) — Twenty-five years were washed away in happy tears at the 15th annual Mother's Day party for parents over 70 here yesterday. Mrs. Theresa Rigler Friedl, 54, flown from Austria three days ago, was reunited with her mother, Mrs. Louisa Grosser of Bowmanstown, Pa., whom she had not seen since 1932. She also saw again her sister, Mrs. Martha Wagner, of New York and her aunt, Mrs. Katie Reich, 74, also of Bowmanstown.

Montgomery, Ike Refight Civil War

GETTYSBURG, Pa., May 12 (U-P) — President Eisenhower and Field Marshal Viscount Montgomery of Britain refought the battle of Gettysburg today and agreed the Union and Confederate commanders should have been "sacked."

But Eisenhower tempered his hindsight a bit. "If some of the generals who fought here were alive today," he told Montgomery, "they probably would have criticized the way we fought."

Montgomery nodded agreement. The two old friends and comrades of World War II traced the surge of combat in the epic Civil War Battle of 1863, first on an electric map, then by car and foot.

The two stood atop Culp's Hill, a rocky, tree covered peak, climbed 60 steps up an observation tower, then came down to look around this right flank strong point of the Union line.

Newsman asked Montgomery whether he still thought Gen. George G. Meade and Gen. Robert E. Lee, the rival Northern and Southern field leaders, should have been sacked.

"I would not have fought the battle that way myself," the wiry, 69-year-old Montgomery replied in his thin voice.

"If you had, I'd have sacked you," Eisenhower put in. Montgomery was one of Eisenhower's top lieutenants while the latter was supreme commander of Allied forces in Europe in World War II.

From among the boulders of Little Round Top, the left anchor of the Northern forces, Eisenhower pointed out across the open plain where Lee ordered Gen. George Pickett into a gallant, futile charge at the strong center of the Union line.

"Why he would have gone across that field, I don't know," the President mused. "The man must have got so mad he wanted to hit that guy with a brick."

Newsman assumed Eisenhower was questioning Lee's order to Pickett, and not Pickett's move to carry out the order. The President wasn't specific on this point, nor did he say who "that guy" was but he apparently referred to Meade.

Beck's Activities Alert Congress

WASHINGTON, May 12 (U-P) — Sen. Ervin (D-NC) said today the financial operations of Teamster Union boss Dave Beck raise this question: should not Congress pass legislation prescribing standards of conduct for persons who handle union funds?

Testimony taken by the Senate Rackets Committee, Ervin said, "indicates that Dave Beck operated the Teamsters Union as his own private property."

Ervin, a committee member, said "there is so little democracy" in this union, the nation's largest, that rank-and-file members have virtually no voice in trying to remedy any breach of trust.

Legislation spelling out guide lines for handling union funds and defining just what constitutes a breach of trust might be advisable as additional legal protection for union members, Ervin said.

In a statement two days ago Beck contended that financial "wisdom" in handling union funds had returned a handsome profit to the Teamsters, but in his appearance before the Senate investigators he has invoked the Fifth Amendment repeatedly.

Beck is slated for another round week. Chairman McClellan (D-Ark) said it probably will be Wednesday, as a finale to a current series of hearings which is being resumed tomorrow afternoon.

Called as witnesses for tomorrow are Roy Fruhauf, president of the Fruhauf Trailer Co., Detroit, and A. M. Burke, who has charge of the mortgage loan department of the Occidental Insurance Co., Los Angeles.

Robert F. Kennedy, the committee counsel, said that Fruhauf and Burke will be asked whether Beck attempted to gain "financial favors" from their companies for himself and his family.

The committee has received testimony that Beck arranged deals for the benefit of his son.

Three Missing Following Crash

FUCHU, Japan, May 12 (U-P) — Five U. S. airmen missing since their plane crashed in the Pacific Wednesday were identified today by U. S. Far East Air Forces headquarters.

Knowland To Block Aid For Yugoslavia

WASHINGTON, May 12 (U-P) — Senate Republican Leader Knowland of California served notice today he will try to block any Eisenhower administration request for money to ship military equipment to Yugoslavia.

President Eisenhower is expected to order within a few days resumption of shipments halted last year when Yugoslav President Tito visited Moscow. Involved is about 100 million dollars in equipment, including 200 second line jet fighter planes.

Knowland said there is nothing he can do to stop these shipments. But he said in an interview he believes the Senate will go along with efforts to bar funds for further aid.

"I shall try to knock out future military assistance to Yugoslavia by a limitation of funds in the appropriate appropriations bill," Knowland said.

Chairman Bridges (NH) of the Senate Republican Policy Committee, said in a separate interview he will support such a move. Bridges and Knowland are members of the Appropriations Committee which would be called to act upon the matter.

Three Boys Escape

HAGERSTOWN, Md., May 12 (U-P) — Pennsylvania juvenile authorities are expected here tomorrow to take back three boys who escaped from a Hazletown, Pa., industrial school and wrecked a stolen car near Hancock, Md.

Sleeping Pills Given As Death Cause

CRESCO — An overdose of sleeping pills was attributed as the cause of the death of a 47-year-old Barrett Township man whose body was found on the kitchen floor of his home Saturday.

Dr. Charles Rushmore, Monroe County coroner issued a verdict of suicide in the death of John R. Hardy of Cresco. He said Hardy died of an overdose of second, a barbiturate.

Mount Pocono State Police said Hardy had been taking care of his father, who is seriously ill, and had not been getting very much sleep.

About 3 p.m., Saturday, he told his brother, Elmer, he was going to take some pills in hopes of getting some needed rest, troopers reported.

Some time later, Elmer was called into the house by his father, and found his brother was unable to stand up. State Police said. Thinking he was drunk, Elmer laid his brother on the kitchen floor, not thinking about the sleeping pills.

Later, trooper said, Forest Evans of Cresco, brother-in-law of the victim, visited the home with his wife, and found John stretched out on the floor.

Unable to find the victim's pulse, Evans notified Dr. Harold A. Tattersall of Mountainhome, who had been treating the father and had left some second for the elder Hardy.

Examining the envelope containing the medicine, Dr. Tattersall estimated that 12 pills were missing. After conferring with the physician, the coroner attributed death to an overdose of sleeping pills, and issued the suicide verdict.

Prior to the incident, State Police said, the two brothers had been drinking. There was no evidence of foul play, troopers added.

Investigation

The case was investigated by Trooper Robert Latzo. The victim was the son of Joseph and Annamaria Schoch Hardy, Cresco. He had been employed by the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western Railroad for 30 years.

Mr. Hardy was a member of the Veterans of Foreign Wars. He served in the U. S. Navy overseas during World War Two. He was a member of the Brotherhood of Maintenance of Railway Employees.

Survivors, in addition to his parents and his wife, the former Sally Van Why, are a sister, Mrs. Belle H. Evans, Cresco; four brothers, Lawrence of Anokimok; Elmer, Kenneth and Arthur, all of Cresco.

Funeral services will be held Tuesday at 3 p.m. in the Mountainhome Methodist Church. Friends may call tonight after 7 at the William H. Clark funeral home. Interment will be made in Oakland cemetery, Mountainhome.

Monroe County Joint Memorial Committee will hold full military ceremonies at graveside.

Post Office May Receive Rate Boost

WASHINGTON, May 12 (U-P) — Sen. Carlson (R-Kan.) said today the Post Office Department may be able to get by with less money if Congress raises postal rates this session.

Carlson told a reporter a rate boost might at least temporarily eliminate the need for the bigger appropriations which Postmaster General Summerfield has asked.

Summerfield said last week he will curtail postal services effective July 1 unless Congress votes him more money, which he said is needed to handle a "phenomenal increase" in mail volume.

"We have received testimony in the Senate Post Office Committee that higher rates would cut down the volume of all classes of mail, at least for a while," said Carlson, senior Republican on the committee.

Thinking

However, Deputy Postmaster General Maurice H. Stans told a Senate Appropriations subcommittee last week that departmental studies indicated the higher rates being asked would not cut the flow of mail.

The only class in which volume might drop would be third class—largely advertising circulars and catalogues—and that would be temporary, Stans said.

Viewing the Screens

CH. 3, NBC in Philadelphia, will present a special one-hour, live telecast from the International Airport next Sunday when they will have three cameras set up to give viewers a 60-minute sample of the activities scheduled there, all in connection with the kickoff of "World Trade Week." "Circle Theatre" will continue on NBC through the summer, but will move to CBS in the Fall, replacing 20th Century Fox and alternating with U.S. Steel Hour.

Ever since the Playhouse 90 production of "Eloise", there have been raves for little Evelyn Kade, already a veteran actress at 7, and who appeared in her first mystery-comedy last night. One of the nation's youngest ice figure skaters, she also sings, dances, swims, dives, rides horseback, plays the piano and speaks English, French and German.

True-life documentaries on law enforcement will be seen in the "Man Behind the Badge" series which will debut on ch. 3 Tuesday, May 21, from 6:30 to 6:50 p.m. Willie Vaughn will replace Rocky Castellani in the fight this Wednesday night on ABC. "Day of Disaster—Hawaii Island" will be the "Circle Theatre" presentation tomorrow night at 9:30 on ch. 3 and 4.

The Million Dollar Movie on ch. 9 at 7:30 and 10 p.m. tonight this week will be "Bringing Up Baby", starring Cary Grant, Katharine Hepburn and Barry Fitzgerald. Tonight at 8 on ch. 2 and 10 Rose Marie makes a down payment on a sleek 22-foot cruiser, but runs into rough waters at home when Gracie, expecting trouble from George about the expensive purchase, launches one of her unique campaigns to change her husband's mind on "The Burns and Allen Show".

Jim Hardy prevents angry townspeople from lynching a shepherd accused of kidnapping a six-year-old girl, when the man, unable to speak English, is unable to explain what happened in "Tales of Wells Fargo" at 8:30 p.m. on ch. 3 and 4. Lucy plans the most effective way for Ricky, her husband, to make a "Hollywood entrance", after he wins a contract to appear in the movie, in "I Love Lucy" at 9 p.m. on ch. 2 and 10.

When Lily and Hilda win a race horse in a drawing, Pete's brother-in-law decides that he should be the jockey in an upcoming race on "December Bride" at 9:30 p.m. on ch. 2 and 10. Jody McCann will be introduced in the role of Buddy Applepie in "Babe in the Woods" at 10 p.m. on ch. 2 and 10. Also in the cast will be Betty Farness, regular commercial announcer on the show.

"Death in an Alley" on "Code 3" at 10:30 p.m. on ch. 6 tells how a dying man's last word leads to a search for a diamond watch, a missing girl and a killer. 11:30 p.m. on ch. 11 will bring to viewers the first of a new week-night series presented by Billy Graham.

Sports

Boxing at 10:30 p.m. on ch. 5—Tony DiBlase vs. Jimmy Archer, welterweights, 10 rounds.

Exchange Club To Feature 'Open Meeting'

RESIDENTS of both Stroudsburg and East Stroudsburg have been invited to attend an open meeting to discuss the proposed consolidation of the two boroughs. The seminar, under the auspices of the Exchange Club, will be held tonight at 8 p. m. at the East Stroudsburg Methodist Church.

Herman L. Otto of the Pennsylvania Economy League, will be the guest speaker. Otto, of Wilkes-Barre, is regarded as an expert on the topic of his discussion, "The Advantages and Disadvantages of Consolidation of Boroughs."

Prime Force The Central Labor Union of Monroe County has been a prime moving force in the battle to consolidate. This unit has been trying to raise enough signatures to permit the issue to be placed on the ballot during the forthcoming election.

The regular dinner-meeting will be held at its usual time of 6:30 p. m. At that time, three girls from East Stroudsburg High School will be honored.

Information Agency Budget Chief Target

WASHINGTON, May 13 (AP)—The Senate Democratic leader shot question after critical question today at the man who has been called the "prophet of Modern Republicanism."

Ostensibly, the issue was the budget for the U. S. Information Agency during the year starting July 1.

But more often than not it appeared to be whether the Republicans or the Democrats were best qualified to run the country.

Doing the questioning, in his slow and friendly drawl, was Sen. Johnson (D-Tex.). In the witness chair before Johnson's Appropriations subcommittee was an often red-faced and frequently fidgeting Arthur Larson.

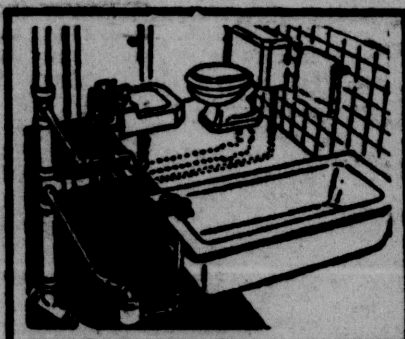

New Director Larson, a handsome and well-tailored man, is the new director of the USIA. He wrote a book called "A Republican Looks at his Party," roundly praised by President Eisenhower who is championing "Modern Republicanism."

Johnson lectured Larson about the need for "facts and figures" to justify budget requests. He said all he had gotten so far out of Larson was "glittering generalities" and "fourth of July speeches." Larson quietly squirmed.

22,000 People Visit Two Exhibitions During 'Tobyhanna Days' Celebration

"TOBYHANNA DAYS" moved to a successful climax Saturday night with a drawing for a $25 bond to each of the three.

The drawing was sponsored by Stroudsburg Merchants Assn. All residents had to do was register in local stores. There were no tickets and no purchases were necessary.

President Charles Marsh announced winners as follows: George T. Menach Jr., Stroudsburg, a $100 bond; Arlene Young, 22 N. 10th St., Stroudsburg, $50 bond; Louis Wagner, Sterling Road, Mount Pocono; Mrs. Joseph Pansy, 108 N. Second St., Stroudsburg and Jean Delbert, 238 W. 26th St., Northampton, a $25 bond to each of the three.

Tobyhanna Signal Depot officials said last night that an estimated 22,000 persons had gone through the two exhibits set up by Depot personnel in the two boroughs during the three-day celebration.

On Saturday by far the largest crowd of the event poured through exhibits in the two towns. Observers said 6,000 visited the Stroudsburg displays and 5,000 passed through the doors of the East Stroudsburg exhibits. Totals for the preceding days were 6,000 on Friday and 5,000 on Thursday. Both exhibit halls were "really loaded with people" until closing time Saturday night.

One of the highlights of the three-day show intended as a "climax" on Saturday, didn't make the schedule. This was the low-level review of jet aircraft. The planes were grounded at Philadelphia International Airport because of poor visibility. High-speed jets are not allowed to conduct flights at lower visibility levels than 1,500 feet, a Depot spokesman said.

Parents Plan New Pack Of Cub Scouts

SWIFTWATER—At the May 7 meeting at Cordial Cottages of a group of Cub Scout parents, plans were made to separate from Pack 91 and organize a Cub Scout pack in Swiftwater, sponsored by the Paradise Parent-Teachers Assn.

Dan Miller met with the group, explaining the Cub Scout program and the need for parent participation. In his words, "We cannot have scouting without manpower." In this connection, it was voted to put on a Cub Scout training course for parents of Cubs, prospective Cubs and leaders. The course puts every parent on the level of a Cub Scout, giving them a better understanding of Cub Scouting.

Directors The following directors were appointed for the course: Kenneth Banzhof, cubmaster; Mrs. W. K. Huffman, Mrs. Christine Heller and Miss Ruth Henry as den mothers; Wayne Wallingford, Albert Storm and Francis Coffman as den dads; Thorton Counterman, librarian; and Carl Hamblin, quartermaster.

Everyone interested in Cub Scouts is urged to attend this training course. The first class will be held at the Paradise School on Monday, May 20 at 7:30 p.m. Refreshments were served by Clayton Coffman.

Father Butler Knights To Hold Meeting

MEMBERS of the Father Butler Council Knights of Columbus will hold a special meeting today. The meeting will be held at 8 p.m. in the Italian Club, Stroudsburg.

The purpose of the special meeting will be to hear a report from Grand Knights John Garrity and Treasurer Sam Driebe on their recent attendance at the State K of C Convention.

Final plans for the forthcoming dinner and dance will also be formulated at this meeting.

It was pointed out that the regular monthly meeting will be devoted to nomination of new officers for the coming year and that this special meeting will be used to dispose of other important business.

The regular meeting date has been moved back to the fourth Monday of May in order not to conflict with Forty Hour Devotions.

Police Officers, Reserves Complete Special Classes

Twenty local police officers and members of the Police Reserve will be graduated from a third annual special class Wednesday night.

A spaghetti supper will be served the graduates at Stroudsburg Municipal Building beginning at 7:15 p.m.

This meeting will also serve as the charter anniversary celebration for the Police Reserve of Monroe County.

The third-year class which the men have now completed was concerned with technical police procedures. Previous annual classes have been in basic procedure and the advanced course.

Instructor for the course has been Arthur V. Jones, retired State trooper and now operator of his own detective agency in Scranton. The courses have been provided through the State Department of Public Instruction's Public Service Institute.

The same group of men receiving diplomas in this course have also been attending a special class taught by agents of the Federal Bureau of Investigation in Scranton. Graduation ceremonies for the Scranton class will be held at the Elks Club in that city May 22.

Men who have successfully completed both courses are the following: Stroudsburg, Gaylord Heberling; Stroudsburg, Gaylord Heberling; East Stroudsburg, Clark Frailey; Tannersville, Clair Shick; Mount Pocono, William Post and the following reserve members: Emerson Stanton, Kenneth Henry, Edwin Steinmetz, Arlett Butz, Richard Peet, John Baabe, Deward Shook, Samuel VanAuken, John Hicklin, Ronald LeBar, Emmitt Derrick, Russell Dailey and Laurence Swink.

Four Candidates Deliver Talks

MOUNT POCONO—Four candidates for public office spoke at a recent meeting of the Pocono Mountain Democratic Club. The meeting took place on May 7 at Happy Landing.

The guests were treated to speeches by Russell Mervine, candidate for Judge, Daniel Warner, who is vying for County Coroner, and Claude Metzgar and Nelson Westbrook, contestants for county Treasurer.

Trinity Church Luther League Presents Skit

BANGOR—The Luther League of the Trinity Lutheran Church held its regular meeting in the church rooms on Sunday night and witnessed the presentation of a skit, "Person to Person," featuring Gary Ruch, Joanne Calazzo and Warren Brodt. George Kressler had charge of the devotionals and Lois Reimer acted as pianist.

Gary Ruch, president, had charge of the business session and routine reports were presented by Lois Reimer and Jean Natsatka. Warren Brodt, a delegate to the Allentown Conference of the Luther League, gave his report and plans were made to hold a swimming party at the Stroudsburg YMCA on Tuesday, May 14. The group will leave from the church at 6:30 p. m.

Brenda Farino was named as chairman of a committee to investigate the purchase of a new ping pong table for the meeting rooms and it was announced that Warren Brodt and Jean Natsatka will present the program at the next meeting. A devotional period climaxed the meeting.

Attending the meeting were William Holland, David Hughes, Susan Pysher, Betty Rutt, Brenda Farino, Joanne Calazzo, George Kressler, Kay Stiles, Lois Reimer, Craig Peilly, Alfred Grassa, Warren Brodt, Gary Ruch, Jean Natsatka and the advisers, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Stiles.

WHAT HAPPENS AFTER DEATH?

In a few score years, all who read these lines will have vanished from the earth.

Every day, almost a hundred thousand human beings finish their earthly span and pass off into the vast beyond. Our turn will come we all know, but when, where and how we cannot be sure.

No merely human being ever has been able to look into eternity and tell us what it is like. No scientific knowledge or instruments can pierce the curtain that divides this world from that into which all of us must eventually journey.

All we know about God's eternal plans for us... all we know about what lies beyond the grave... comes from the God Who made us and to the extent He has seen fit to reveal it to us.

But we can face eternity without fear. For we have a definite answer to the mystery of death. With the facts God has put at our disposal through the inspired books of the Old and the New Testaments, the Catholic Church always has given, and gives today, a definite answer to the important questions raised by the fact of death.

Man's life in this world, the Church tells us, is a preparation for the world to come... a testing-time which ends with our death. What happens after that depends on whether death finds us loyal to God, or opposed to Him and the way He expects us to live. "...it is appointed unto men once to die and after this the judgment" (Heb. 9:27).

Christ gave us (Matt. 25:31-46) a description of God's judgment which leaves no room for doubt that our worthiness of everlasting reward will be judged solely according to the way we have lived our lives on this earth.

Death does not bring merely a long, unconscious slumber, but rather a quick awakening to the irrevocable judgment of our Creator. Nor does it bring us a second chance to prove ourselves or to amend our erring ways. In our own hands rests the opportunity... and upon our own heads the responsibility... to determine if death shall be the threshold to everlasting life among the blessed, or among the lost.

Men blessed by youth and good health often feel that death for them is far away—something to be worried about only in the twilight years. Some scoff at the suggestion that an everlasting hell could be permitted by a merciful God. Others seem to think that God will treat them kindly if they live reasonably moral lives, even though they pay Him no special honor which is His due.

If you would like more information on Heaven, Hell, Purgatory, the end of the world and the resurrection and judgment of all men... we shall be happy to send you an interesting pamphlet, in a plain wrapper. And nobody will call on you. Write today for your copy of Pamphlet No. KC-14.

Monroe UJA Seeks Fund For Refugees

The United Jewish Appeal is launching a campaign to raise a 100 million dollar Emergency Rescue Fund. Monroe County's goal has been set at $6,000.

The recent tragic events abroad have created the most urgent Jewish refugee problem since the Hitler era and the chaos following World War Two.

A new terror has befallen the 50,000 Jewish residents of Egypt. Hundreds of Jews have been stripped of their belongings and expelled from Egypt as almost penniless refugees.

Thousands more stand to share the same fate. Meanwhile, the tragedy in Hungary adds to the number of refugees. Also, many Jews are finding their way out of other tension-ridden lands in Europe and the Middle East.

Thus, with the refugee figures — and toll of human suffering — mounting every day, the Monroe County UJA has called upon its supporters to join in a great nationwide emergency effort to save the latest victims of oppression and terror.

UJA has determined to seek the 100-million-dollar Rescue Fund over and above its regular 1957 campaign to save and resettle in the free world a minimum of 100,000 uprooted men, women and children.

We earnestly hope the United Jewish Appeal will be successful in both its money-raising efforts. We urge strongly that all people of the community support this newest great effort for freedom.

Unrestricted Open Sky Plan Is Best

The Committee for Constitutional Government, Inc., questions the wisdom of the United States agreeing to set up mutual aerial inspection with Russia.

"We know that Russia has air fields and bomb factories. How will seeing from the air many big factories help us? Which ones make hydrogen bombs and which ones make hoes and spades? Who can tell from a plane?"

These are some of the questions asked by Willford I. King, economics lecturer at New York University and chairman of the committee.

"We have built up an elaborate radar system to guard us against a surprise attack by Russia. Suppose that we now give Russia the right of aerial inspection. She wishes to do a thorough job, so she sends a big squadron of inspecting planes.

"Each happens to carry a few atomic or hydrogen bombs, and these bombs just happen to fall out over our principal centers of manufacture of war materials and our leading air fields. . . . Would such happenstances be out of harmony with the aims and characteristics of the Russian leaders?" King asks.

We agree Russian motives would differ sharply from ours in setting up some sort of a disarmament patrol, but we still feel President Eisenhower's original "open-sky" proposal would guarantee greater safeguards than any other plan yet suggested.

Surely the Soviet Union's offer to enter into a partial inspection agreement is highly unacceptable on our part, no matter how we look at it.

The Kremlin wants to make aerial surveys of Alaska and all of Continental United States west of the Mississippi River. In return, it would open up to similar inspection eastern Siberia, an area of European Russia still undesignated, the Pacific island of Sakhalin north of Japan and the Kamchatka peninsula close to the American Aleutians.

The real heart of the country and even the newer industrial developments of western Siberia would be ruled out of bounds. Yet Russia wants a look-see at our vital air and naval bases, missile and atomic testing sites, power installations and many gigantic aviation and industrial developments.

That's far from being a fair exchange. We should reject any such silly offer while pressing our original demands for an open-sky system that provides fool-proof safeguards and meets all objections, including those of the Committee for Constitutional Government.

George Sokolsky Says . . .

Taft, McCarthy Still Significant Factors In Future Of Modern Republican Movement

The Modern Republicans in 1960 will have a haunted convention in the sense that two ghosts will sit among the delegates; two ghosts will walk into committee rooms. They will be the ghosts of Robert A. Taft and Joe McCarthy.

It is like last year's newspaper, good to wrap herring; but there is a persistence in Taft and there is likely to be a persistence in McCarthy, usual in politics and unpleasant for the leaders.

The persistence in Taft comes from many causes, perhaps the most potent being that professional Republicans, as much as they admire Eisenhower personally, have never become accustomed to his immediate personnel. They are now divided in their decisions between Vice President Nixon and Senator William Knowland for the Presidency, but they will not take any so-called Modern Republican. In this sense, the ghost of Robert A. Taft will walk in the front ranks.

It is a curiosity of American political life that Taft never, while he was alive, enjoyed the prestige which is now his among Republicans. Even younger Republicans, who could not have known Taft, rise in excited applause at the mention of his name. No living Republican holds a comparable position. The reason is that Taft represents a protest against opportunism.

The McCarthy following is not necessarily limited to Republican professionals. His followers crossed party lines, consisting of those who were convinced that Communism, as a movement, as an intellectual concept, as a political organization can only be fought by the methods he advocated.

His followers never forsook him; they did not lessen in their ardor during the years of inactivity; they are continuing to maintain their varieties of organizations. Although Joe McCarthy died of a virus disease, they believe that he was heartbroken by the abuse which he had to take from his enemies. They regard President Eisenhower and his immediate associates as having been McCarthy's principal enemies.

His followers never forsook him; they did not lessen in their ardor during the years of inactivity; they are continuing to maintain their varieties of organizations. Although Joe McCarthy died of a virus disease, they believe that he was heartbroken by the abuse which he had to take from his enemies. They regard President Eisenhower and his immediate associates as having been McCarthy's principal enemies.

The Democrats undoubtedly have made an appraisal of the situation fairly along these lines, because they are now taunting the Republicans with the re-emergence of Dean Acheson as a public figure. Acheson having been the target of opposition by both the Taft and McCarthy groups during the Truman administration. It is like saying to these Republicans, "Do your damndest but do it fast." It may lead to political trouble. The Taftites can defend the regime of John Foster Dulles, but the McCarthyites are bound to regard the Dulles administration of the State Department as an extension of the Acheson era.

No matter how one looks at it, the Republicans are likely to go into the 1960 Convention factionally split, unless a leader can emerge of great political acumen and personal popularity. Such a leader might be able to fuse the various segments of the party together, although it is generally doubted that the Eisenhower Modern Republicans can develop a mood or a position to make the compromises necessary after enjoying a period of such extensive power.

The only two men who stand out, at this moment, as possible candidates in 1960 are Nixon and Knowland; the Democrats are naturally anxious to discover whether these two will enter upon a personal contest which may further split the Republicans. Both are from California. Each is popular in his own state.

Nixon is shackled by the Vice Presidency which prevents him from taking a stand independent of or different from the President even if he wants to. Knowland is free to travel the country; to say what he wishes. After 1958, he will be still more free. It is an interesting situation, such as has not been witnessed in many years in either party. This must be noted: the 1960 campaign is now on and candidates are taking their stance. The death of Joe McCarthy is an added factor; a most significant factor.

She Liked To Sell, Not To Make Things

By Anne Heywood
Sometimes we all try too hard to be well-rounded, well-balanced, and well-adjusted. We're not satisfied if we're good at one thing—no, we have to be equally good at everything. As a result, we often miss the boat entirely. I thought of that the other day when I was buying a card in a gift shop near my house.

Presented Samples
While I was making a selection, a woman came in with samples of leather goods, perfectly beautiful belts and purses, in lovely colors. She presented them to the owner of the shop, who studied them for a minute and then gave her an order.

I watched while she wrote up the order. Then she thanked the owner of the shop and started to leave.

But of course I couldn't let her go without getting her story! "How long does it take you to make a belt?" was my first question.

The woman began to laugh. "Heavens," she told me, "I don't make them myself. I don't like to make things. I just like to sell them."

She went on to say that in the beginning, she had wanted work to do at home that would bring in some income. She made cakes and sold them through a fancy food shop.

"But," she said, "I found that selling the shop on the idea was a great fun, but staying in the kitchen to make them was no fun at all. I got a neighbor of mine to make them, and we split the profits."

"At first, I thought there was something wrong with me," she went on, "making the sales and then being unable to follow it up by making the cakes."

"So I tried ceramic ashtrays. I made up a few samples and sold them to a gift shop, which ordered a lot more. Once again, selling was fun but delivering the goods was no fun."

She Found Making Things Wasn't Her Forte

Felt Guilty
"I began to get a guilty feeling, until one day I sat down and realized that I didn't feel guilty at all. I was a good salesman and a bad craftsman, and that was that. 'So I decided to sell products—all kinds of products—for other women who are good craftsmen and had salesmen. After all, everybody doesn't have to be good at everything!'"

"Now I have more products to sell than I have hours in the day. I even have a waiting list!"

Remember how he thinks he's a monkey? Get him to climb up there and retrieve the parrots."

Sure enough, 7362 marched into the superintendent's study a half hour later, triumphantly clutching a red parrot. "Where's the other parrot—the green one?" he was asked. "He's still up in the tree," said 7362. "There didn't seem to be much sense picking him before he was ripe."

Robert S. Allen Reports . . .

Tranquilizer Drugs Can Lead To Serious Addiction

Washington, May 12—Be mighty careful about those tranquilizer drugs.

They can be very harmful—such as becoming dangerous addictions.

Tranquilizers should never be used unless prescribed by a doctor, and such prescriptions should be non-refillable. Repetition of these drugs should be only after medical examination.

That is the earnest advice of the government's leading research specialist in this field.

Dr. Robert Felix, director of the National Institute of Mental Health, one of the noted research centers of the U. S. Public Health Service, Bethesda, Md., voiced this counsel in a detailed discussion of tranquilizers before a Senate Appropriations Subcommittee.

This group, headed by Senator Lister Hill (D., Ala.), is considering a $2,000,000 request to continue a study of these drugs. Last year, Congress voted $2,000,000 for this purpose, and Dr. Felix explained the additional money is needed to complete this important research.

Just how important it is, he pointed out, is shown by the fact that last year there were an estimated 30,000,000 tranquilizer prescriptions. And this huge total does not include millions of other such drugs bought without prescriptions.

Main conclusions so far reached by the Mental Institute are: Two tranquilizers are definitely not habit forming. But one widely-used drug may be addictive; these findings are still incomplete.

In at least some cases tranquilizers have directly opposite effects on normal persons and mental patients.

These drugs are particularly helpful in treating mental cases in the 25-30 age group. Tranquilizers are not cures. They can be of great value in effecting cures, but they "do not cure or alter the fundamental disorder."

A special agency was set up by the Mental Institute to direct the extensive tranquilizer study.

It is the Psychopharmacology Service Center, headed by Dr. Jonathan Cole. Three groups are included in its significant research: Normal persons, among them a number of prison volunteers; hospitalized mental patients; depressed, nervous and other individuals for whom doctors prescribe tranquilizers.

The Warning—Dr. Felix gave the following definition of tranquilizer drugs: "Those which have an effect on the brain, causing it or some part of it to function differently; usually to make the patient more calm and quiet."

The senators questioned him particularly as to whether these drugs are habit forming.

"We have completed our studies on two tranquilizers at the Institute and at our Addiction Research Center, Lexington, Ky," replied Dr. Felix, "and we have found they will not cause addiction. They are chlorpromazine and reserpine; that's their chemical family names. "There is another drug that we are doubtful about. At this time, we cannot say it is not addictive. It could be. We have not completed our studies, so we cannot say with certainty whether it is or not. But we know the other two are not habit forming."

"You tell us the use of tranquilizers has immensely increased in the last few years," said Senator Warren Magnuson (D., Wash.). "As a leading authority in this field, what would you advise if you were asked, 'What about these drugs?'"

"I would advise two things," declared Dr. Felix. "First, that tranquilizers should be used with care and only when prescribed by a doctor. Second, that prescriptions should be non-refillable; that is, to get a refill a new prescription is required. That would prevent the continued use of these drugs without a physician's examination."

Deputy Surgeon General W. Palmer Dearing added to this warning.

"Some patients may get psychological on these drugs," the Public Health official pointed out. "There is a marked tendency for people to lean on them, although they may not be adding in the medical sense."

"You mean they may be psychologically addictive," said Senator Hill. Dr. Dearing agreed.

Senator John Pastore (D., R. I.) raised the question of the curative value of tranquilizers.

"These drugs do not cure basic illnesses so far as we know," said Dr. Felix. "They may get patients into a less chronic or disturbed stage of illness so they will be more amenable to treatment. For that purpose these drugs are extremely valuable and have revolutionized the treatment of mental patients. But tranquilizers do not cure or alter fundamental disorders."

Because of the soaring use of these drugs, Senator Magnuson contended the government has a special responsibility regarding them.

"I asked the Federal Trade Commission to make a thorough survey of tranquilizer advertising," said Magnuson, who is also chairman of the Interstate Commerce Committee. "I did that because there are a lot of false claims made about these drugs. The Commission's report should be very useful."

"I should, indeed," said Dr. Felix. "One finding we have made regarding a certain drug is that it affects normal people exactly the opposite from mental cases. This tranquilizer calms and quiets mental patients, while it intensifies the reactions of normal persons. This is a very important discovery, and it should be followed up with further research."

Note: Senator Hill, the son of a doctor, is discussing an unusual medical proposal with Administration authorities. He would create a $90,000,000 "reserve fund" to "exploit breakthroughs" in research in cancer, heart and other major ailments. This special fund would be under control of the National Institutes of Health, which direct the government's $200,000,000 medical research activities.

Gas Tank Explosion Causes Burns

By Jim Riley

Putting soap, sand, sugar or other foreign substances into gas tanks of automobiles has long been a foul practice associated with the human race.

A 14-year-old youth, too youthful to understand the power of the stunt, fill gas tanks as a form of fun, it has become a genuine crime among teen-agers and adults.

The deplorable action cost thousands of dollars in this region alone last year.

Among teen-agers and adults this "kick" is usually a form of revenge. It is a move of "spite."

The incident that brought this entire thing to mind occurred in Buffalo, N.Y., but the chief character in the plot was a former resident of Stroudsburg.

John Van Buskirk, the man who used to live in Stroudsburg, was doing a good deed when by some unknown manner a gas tank he was cleaning exploded, causing severe burns to both of his hands. Both hands are now heavily encased in bandages.

John was cleaning the tank for a Henry Whitlocks, who had been the victim of foul play. His gas tank had been loaded with fish worms — a real, genuine thrill.

Putting foreign substances into gas tanks could be compared with setting forest fires, breaking windows or upsetting crowded row boats, as far as thrills are concerned.

Dave Everett, 529 Wallace St., Stroudsburg, was the guest of son Dave Jr. at Muhlenberg College on Saturday, where young Dave is a student.

The big event was "Fathers Day" on campus.

Dave Jr. is a graduate of Stroudsburg High and Dave Sr. is employed by Hughes Printing Co.

The day included a baseball game, tour of a new dormitory, dinner, and a show, "The Man Who Came To Dinner."

Curtain-Time: Dennis King, star of Tony Webster's "The Greatest Man Alive" (at The Barymore), received a First - Night tribute reserved for Very Special Players . . . The initial spectators remained in their pews for half - a - dozen curtains to applaud the cast of capables, especially Mr. King . . . The star triumphed, despite a cloudy script . . . Typical of the Jekyll-Hyde reviews was Mr. Atkinson's in the N. Y. Times: He enthused: "Dennis King plays the part with skill, imagination and gusto. He worked it up into a little gem of character comedy" . . . The farce, however, was dismissed as "a feeble jest" and closed last night . . . Despite unanimous rave reviews the "Brigadoon" revival could not catch its breath and returned to its grave . . . # Rain Eases Threat Of Forest Fires In Pocono Mountains

One-Tenth Inch Falls On Saturday

WEARY firefighters got a much needed rest over the weekend as scattered showers temporarily erased the forest fire threat in the Pocono Mountains area.

However, District Forester E. Clyde Pyle reported last night that area brush fires were virtually down before an estimated one-tenth of an inch of rain fell on the Poconos over the weekend.

Before relief came, more than 7,000 acres of land in Pike and Monroe counties had been destroyed, Pyle said. Most of the damage occurred in the Effort Mountain area, and in Paradise and Barrett townships.

Investigation

Meanwhile, conservation officials are continuing their investigation into the possibility that many of the fires were deliberately set by a "firebug."

"It could be a vengeful person or a maniac," the district forester revealed.

He said several dozen wardens, state police and others had questioned numerous suspects, talked with many more persons, and had even stopped automobiles to see if they contained materials which could have been used to start fires.

Army Chief Bows In Missile Fight

WASHINGTON, May 12 (AP)—Gen. Maxwell Taylor, Army chief of staff, said today he is no longer fighting for the Army to develop long-range missiles but accepts that job as an Air Force role.

Saying he had defended the Army's need for the 1,500-mile range missile last fall but was overruled by Secretary of Defense Wilson, Taylor declared:

"We had our day in court, argued our case and we lost and so far as I'm concerned that settled it...he was acting within his authority."

Taylor made clear his stand in a TV-radio interview NBC "Meet the Press" when, asked about Eisenhower's statement last week questioning the Army's need for the long-range weapons.

Eisenhower told a news conference that if the Army did have a 1,500 mile missile it would need an air arm capable of operating 1,500 miles to find out whether the missile was working successfully.

Requirement
Taylor commented that for all distant weapons, including artillery, Air Force spotters were required, adding: "The services must reinforce each other. No service can afford to be self-sustained."

The question of missiles came up in another TV-radio interview today.

Sen. Symington (D-Mo) said Russia is "well ahead" of the United States in developing an intermediate range missile and that it will be "many years" before this country has an operational missile that can travel more than 200 miles. Last fall's decision by Wilson limited the Army to missiles of no more than 200 miles range.

And Gen. Lauris Norstad, supreme Allied commander in Europe, said the NATO defense of Western Europe is "built around" atomic weapons and NATO has "delivery capability" on such weapons.

Both Taylor and Norstad made clear that Allied military forces are prepared to use atomic weapons now.

Symington, questioned in a television interview ABC "College News Conference," said he believes the American public is "very much misinformed" on the nation's missile progress.

He said development of an operational, supersonic missile with a range greater than that of Germany's V-2 of World War II will come "considerably later" than the public has been led to believe.

The V-2, he said, had a range of 175-200 miles.

Both the Army and the Air Force currently are testing development models of missiles designed to travel about 1,500 miles—the range designated as intermediate. But Symington said the Soviets have a substantial lead in perfecting such weapons.

Rubber Plant Closes
RIO DE JANEIRO, May 12 (AP)—One major tire factory—the Firestone plant—has shut down and others are threatened with closing because of a rubber shortage in Rio de Janeiro, once rubber capital of the world.

Ohio Man Arrested On Worthless Check Count
A 59-YEAR-OLD Ohio man was arrested over the weekend on charges he allegedly passed worthless checks, totaling $122, at three Stroudsburg business places.

George J. Zeigler, Youngstown, Ohio, was arrested by the State Police and later turned over to borough authorities. After appearing before Justice of the Peace John C. Foelker, he was committed to the Monroe County Jail for a later hearing.

Stroudsburg Police Chief James McConnell said Zeigler is accused of passing worthless checks at the Penn-Stroud Hotel, Dean Phipps, and at Evans the Florist.

Efforts are being made to determine if other worthless checks have been passed elsewhere, McConnell said.

The police chief said Zeigler walked into Dean Phipps and passed a $92 check after ordering $82 in merchandise.

Telling store officials his "wife" would be in to pick up the order, Zeigler was given $10 in change, McConnell said.

Stroudsburg High Junior Captures First Place In Monroe County Road-E-O

SEVENTEEN-YEAR-OLD Larry R. Phillips captured the Monroe County Road-E-O title with an exhibition of fine driving and intimate knowledge of traffic regulations.

Phillips, a junior at Stroudsburg High School, received stiff competition from school mates John Hawk, 17, and James Welsh, 18.

The event, which was held on Saturday, began at 9 a.m. with the written exams at the Penn-Stroud Hotel. An hour-and-a-half later the contestants adjourned to Lenox St., Stroudsburg, for the driving tests.

In winning the county title, Phillips, who resides at 1228 Pocono Park Drive, will represent Monroe in the State championships on June 8. All his expenses for the trip will be borne by the Pocono Mountains Junior Chamber of Commerce.

The state-wide title-holder will vie for the national crown in Washington, D.C., in August. A total of $4500 in Scholarships will be distributed among the winners.

Both Hawk and Welsh crowded the champion with exhibitions of fine driving, and the decision was a difficult one for the judges to make.

The judiciary was composed of five members of the Junior Chamber of Commerce. Irving S. Karpe was the chairman, and he received able assistance from Arthur Rath, Edwin Krawitz, Joseph and William Johnson, Gene Hippler, Peter Wyckoff, Chester Miller and Robert Widmer.

Essay Award Winners Named At Auxiliary Conference

ROSETO—Essay awards in the Americanism Contest highlighted the meeting of the Four - County Council, American Legion Auxiliary.

The meeting was held Saturday night here at the Marconi Club. Cash awards in the contest went to first prize winners Rodney Griffith of Wind Gap and Nancy Ruth, Fountain Hill, and runner-up Betty Arner and Nancy Leister, both of Lehighton. The presentation was made by Mrs. Harrington Adams, chairman of the committee.

The topic was "One Nation Under God."

The principal speakers of the evening were Mrs. Paul Hague, Donnington, the Eastern Veep, Mrs. James Tracy, Honesville, the State Civil Defense Chairman, and Mrs. Arthur Means, Altoona, the State Chairman, Junior Division.

The 100 delegates were welcomed by Frank DeFranco, commander of the Marconi-Capobianco Post 750, and Mrs. Mary Farino, president of the hostess' Auxiliary, both of Roseto.

Eleven auxiliary units received citations for meeting their membership quotas. They were: Allentown, Post 818; Pen Argil, Post 502; Wind Gap, Post 724; Summit Hill, Post 316; Jim Thorpe, Post 304; Palmerton, Post 289; Lansford, Post 123; Slatington, Post 16; Easton, Post 9; Roseto, Post 750; and Bangor, Post 378.

The group voted a $25 donation to the Veteran's Hospital in Wilkes-Barre.

The election meeting will be held on July 20 in Palmerton.

Approve Standard Rules

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y., May 12 (AP)—The U. N. Social Commission has approved standard minimum rules for treatment of prisoners. They prohibit chains, irons, whipping and dark cells and provide daily outdoor exercise when weather permits, wholesome food and weekly baths.

He also is charged with walking into the florist shop and ordering flowers for "mother," the chief disclosed. He wrote a check for $21, and got $10 in change.

McConnell also reported that the suspect got a $9 room at the Penn-Stroud, and allegedly passed another bum check.

"We don't know how many more checks could have been passed," McConnell said. "Businessmen with such information should notify the Stroudsburg Police Department."

Modern Furniture

TEL AVIV, Israel, May 12 (AP)—U. N. Emergency Forces have bought $2,000 worth of modern furniture in Israel and quietly transported it to officers' clubs in the Egyptian-controlled Gaza Strip. It is believed the first consignment of Israel-made goods to enter Arab territory since Israel was founded.

Two Charges Grow From Bangor Strike

BANGOR'S 10-DAY old textile mill strike was relatively quiet over the weekend—except for an assault and battery case involving two women.

Both have been employees of the Blue Ridge Textile Co. plants in the area. The incident from which the charge grew allegedly occurred on Thursday at the Messenger St. Plant.

Justice of the Peace Raymond Traves, Bangor, said last night that Mrs. Bertha Cargill, Bangor RD 2, was free on $300 bail.

Mrs. Cargill had been given a preliminary hearing on an assault and battery charge filed by Mrs. Kathleen Housden, Bangor. Mrs. Housden said Mrs. Cargill "pushed" her Thursday afternoon at the strike-bound factory.

Picket Both women were in front of the plant at the time of the alleged incident. Mrs. Cargill was one of the pickets in the line outside the factory. She later appeared before Burgess Hayden Pritchard to object to actions of two company truck drivers when they moved trucks through the picket line and a crowd of people in front of the plant.

Mrs. Cargill told a reporter last night that she intends to file a counter-charge against Mrs. Housden. No action had been taken before either Bangor Justice of the Peace last night in that matter.

Traves told The Daily Record that he had not set a date, as yet, for a hearing on the charge against Mrs. Cargill.

Non-Support Charge
GROVER AHNER, 24, of RD 4, Lehighton, has been committed to the Monroe County Jail on a bench warrant charging him with non-support.

BASE HIT—Obstacles in the form of baseballs were featured at the Road-E-O on Lenox St., Stroudsburg, on Saturday. Hitting the baseball objects actually was a "putout" rather than a hit in this competition. (Staff Photo by MacLeod)

Two Injured In Route 90 Accident

MOUNTAINHOME — Dulane Elder, 24, of Mountainhome, has been charged with driving without a license as the result of an accident in which he and a passenger were injured, Mount Pocono State Police reported last night.

Troopers said Elder and Roosevelt Gibson, 20, also of Mountainhome, were taken to East Stroudsburg General Hospital following the mishap on Route 90, five miles north of here, early Saturday.

Injuries

Both men suffered cuts and bruises, and possible internal injuries, State Police said. Elder was listed in good condition last night, while Gibson's condition was said to be fair.

Troopers said that while Elder was driving, the car went off the highway and crashed. Other details were not immediately learned.

Court Upholds Matusow Rule

NEW YORK, May 12 (AP)—The U.S. Court of Appeals today upheld the perjury conviction and five-year prison sentence of turnabout witness Harvey M. Matusow.

Matusow, a former Communist, was tried for perjury after recanting testimony he gave against 13 second-string Reds in a 1952 trial and for claiming Roy M. Cohn, then an assistant U.S. attorney, coached him to give false testimony.

Committee Decides To Enlarge Size

A DECISION to enlarge the Monroe County Pennsylvania Citizens Association Committee membership to 15 has been made.

At a meeting at the home of Mrs. Nelson Beers with Mrs. Harold S. Pond, chairman, presiding, members voted to increase their number.

Plans are now being made to publicize the "PCA Story" throughout the Monroe County. Members discussed three bills now pending in the State legislature which would liberalize Public Assistance residence requirements and remove restrictions against general assistant to aliens.

Local members were urged to support the bills—H-606, H-742 and H-705—by writing to chairman John R. Haudenschild of the House Committee on Welfare.

Those attending the meeting were Mrs. Beers, Mrs. Pond, Mrs. Frank S. LaBar, Mrs. Eugene Martin and George Rung.

Blood Donor Slogan

The Halletts Honored On Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Hallett of Franklin Hill on Saturday renewed the wedding vows which they had first taken fifty years ago in the Little Church Around the Corner in New York City. Rev. Harold C. Eaton, pastor of the East Stroudsburg Methodist Church, read the marriage ceremony during the open house at the home they have lived in for 45 of those 50 years. Friends, children and grandchildren, and co-workers helped them celebrate the event.

Their golden wedding was in contrast to the original ceremony which was a strictly private affair. They went to New York from Stroudsburg especially to be married in the Little Church Around the Corner, even then famous for its weddings. They hoped to get home before the news, but their train was late and they had quite a reception on their arrival.

Mrs. Hallett is the former Laura Angle, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Angle of Marshalls Creek. Mr. Hallett is the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. James Hallett of Ansonia, N. J. They have four children: Mrs. John L. (Martha) Williams; Mrs. Rudolph (Janice) Drip; Mrs. Edwin (Fay) Miller, of Monroe County and Chester W. Hallett of Oneonta, N. Y. They also have six grandchildren.

Mr. Hallett was a poultry man and had one of the largest poultry farms in the county at one time. Mrs. Hallett for the past 15 years has been in charge of the pattern department at Hughes Printing Co.

From her co-workers in the pattern department, the couple received a money tree, and from the women of the day side at Hughes they received a bouquet. They received many other cards and gifts for their anniversary and the best wishes of the many friends who called on them.

Prom Weekend At Blair Academy

Blairtown, N. J. — A formal dance on Friday night, afternoon athletic events and a reception at the headmaster's house and an informal dance on Saturday highlighted the Blair Academy Spring Prom weekend. Among the guests and their student escorts was Miss Patricia Martin, a student at Kent Place School, Summit, N. J., who was the guest of Richard E. DePuy, a junior, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. Edward DePuy of 105 South Eighth St., Stroudsburg.

W. R. Helbig, German Girl, Wed At Pines

Barrett—The wedding of William R. Helbig of The Pines, Canada to Hilde Anna Frommel, a native of Regensburg, Germany was held on Saturday afternoon at 4 p.m. in the lobby of the Pines Hotel.

Rev. Edgar B. Moore performed the ceremony against a background of white gladiolus, pink chrysanthemums, pine, lavender and white lilac and rhododendron, in the presence of friends and relatives.

The bride is the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Uitz of Regensburg, Germany. Mr. Helbig is the son of Mrs. William Barden of The Pines in Canada and of William H. Helbig of Belmar, N. J.

The bride, who was given in marriage by Fred Robinson, wore a gown of white imported lace with light blue accessories. She carried a bouquet of white carnations.

Miss Kathleen M. Gravel of The Pinehurst, Canada, was maid of honor. She wore a light blue dress with a hat made of blue flowers and carried a bouquet of red roses.

Donald Canfield, of Kearny, N. J. was best man and Allan Duff of Armonk, N. Y., was usher.

A reception was held at the Pines following the ceremony. The bridegroom's mother wore a beige lace dress with green accessories and an orchid corsage.

After a wedding trip to an unannounced destination, Mr. and Mrs. Helbig will be at home at the Pines where Mr. Helbig, a graduate of Barrett High School, is associated with the management. The bride was educated in private school in Germany and is a secretary.

Just Between Us

—By Bobby Westbrook

It is one of the ironies of life that if a social editor is to do her job properly she has precious little time for socializing. But this Maytime I seem to have reversed the procedure and left myself precious little time to work.

If all the banquets I've been eating don't show, it's because I run so fast to get to the next one, maybe. However, it was far from a business holiday to go to the Shinn's big dinner party at Vacation Valley on Saturday night. With no deadline to meet, I could really gorge and take time to digest the food and enjoy the company afterwards.

There was considerable speculation among the guests whether an impartial observer could tell them from the honey-mooners. Well, by candle-light, I would say no. Especially not when some of the spryer ones asked the jitterbug to their fox-trot routine.

For years I've been envying the high school seniors their May parties at the Valley, and now I know I was right. It's a perfect place for a party.

And a perfect way to spend Mother's Day is making like a parent at college festivities. I don't know when I've had a more gala weekend or when I was so glad to see a midjet for a social page. I'll pay the Piper when all the people who also had gala news start calling about why it didn't get in the paper, today.

But if they are as well-fed and as satisfied that their "lives are falling in pleasant places" as I am right now, they'll be patient. I hope.

Miss Alice Guida Bride Of Pfc. Joseph Kruk Sat.

Mount Pocono—Miss Alice Louise Guida, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Guida, Pocono Summit, was married Saturday, May 11, to Pfc. Joseph Raymond Kruk, son of Mrs. Emma Kruk, 9 Gordon Place, Scranton. Rev. E. Robert Galligan performed the rites at 9:30 a.m. in Saint Joan of Arc church, Pocono Summit, using the double ring ceremony.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of embroidered nylon tulle over taffeta. The fitted bodice featured a small collar, long sleeves tapered at the wrists to a point. The bouffant skirt, worn over a wide hoop, was floor length. Her veil was of French silk illusion, arranged from a crown of lace and pearls. She carried a cascade bouquet of pink roses, feathered white carnations, and lilies of the valley, with a white prayer-book, a gift of the bridegroom.

Mrs. Louis Vaccola, Mt. Pocono, sister of the bride, was the matron of honor and Miss Martha French, Pocono Summit, was the bridesmaid. Their gowns were of nylon chiffon in aqua, over taffeta. The necklines were draped with long streamers, over a full skirt. They wore matching tiaras. Mrs. Vaccola carried yellow roses and white carnations with streamers, and Miss French carried pink roses with white carnations.

The Junior bridesmaids, Rosemary Esmuniki, niece of the bride, and Ann Marie Kruk, niece of the bridegroom were attired in similarly styled gowns of pink chiffon over taffeta. Their flowers were blue and white carnations. The altar and church were decorated with pink and white gladiolus, and ferns. White satin bows marked the pews. Mrs. Anna Korpi was the organist and Miss Joan Pleviak sang Ave Maria, Panis Angelicus and This Month of Our Mother.

The bridegroom's brother, Stanley Kruk, Scranton, was best man and the ushers were Michael and George Guida, brothers of the bride.

The bride's mother wore a blue dress with white collar, and navy and white accessories, and a corsage of pink roses. The bride-

The telephone rings—and it's Johnnie Gruver of Bangor, the delightful dancing teacher and world traveler who was our guest on a recent Wyckoff Shopper program. Johnnie extends an invitation to attend her annual dance recital Saturday evening, May 18, at 8 o'clock, in the Roseto Public School. I accept with enthusiasm, only to discover that I'm narrating the Community Chorus concert that night at Stroudsburg High School. Sorry, Johnnie—but good luck to you and your pupils, both you and they deserve it! . . . The telephone rings—and it's Mrs. A. H. Mathieson, Sr., to tell me how surprised she was to see our passing conversation recorded in a Wyckoff Shopper column. "But it's the truth," she says, "the Wyckoff Tea Room is one of the loveliest, most relaxing places I've ever found to dine." She mentions that when Mrs. Joseph Swaine returned recently from wintering in Florida, they spent several hours together and then came to Wyckoff's for dinner. "The food was splendid as always," Mrs. Mathieson says, "and we met several of the people Mrs. Swaine was most desirous of seeing." That's how it always is at Wyckoff's—EVERYONE gathers there . . . Attending the Chestnut Hill High School band and chorus concert with the Vianellos the other evening, I met Marian Mackes, whose home economics girls are always winning ribbons and prizes galore in the Wyckoff Farm and Fashion Shows. Marian's son was playing a slide trombone in the concert, and appearing to have a wonderful time, as did all the other musicians under the baton of Robert Coombs. It was a splendid program, all too short even for a warm evening, and the applause was richly deserved by both students and instructor. Marian introduced me to her friend, Mrs. Boyer, and the latter's mother who is visiting in this area, but who tells me she's already acquainted with Wyckoff's through our shopping service. . . . Incidentally, I should like to salute my friends of the West End in this column, as I did on Friday's radio broadcast. They're wonderful people living in a particularly beautiful section of our county, and if I spend much more time "out that way" their tax assessor will probably get me. Tuesday evening I had the pleasure of reviewing Thyra Ferre Bjorn's delightful book, "Papa's Wife" for the mother-daughter dinner of the Salem Reformed Church, and Wednesday night I was a guest at the Progressive Woman's Club meeting when my friend, Sarah Haefler, and her officers, relinquished their duties to a new slate headed by Mrs. Grant Knowles. Doesn't anyone out there that way have a couple of acres—alright, a half acre—quarter acre—well, maybe a HANDKERCHIEF sized bit of ground they'd deed me on which to pitch a tent? I like that area and the people who live there! . . . One of those "people who live there" is Bill Fisher, Wyckoff's comptroller. Bill, I am told, has just taken over Boy Scout Troop 98, which is probably why he was down on his knees a moment ago, along with Doug Gordon and Bill Wells, trying to figure out how to pitch a huge tent just received in our Boy Scout department. It was a special order, I am told, for a certain lad's birthday, and he'll probably be a year older before the fellows have instructions for raising it figured out. Incidentally, I appreciate the comments of readers who say, "I marvel at how you find new things to write about every day." But the credit shouldn't come to me. It's not that I'm so clever—it's just that I can't help observing things that happen around me. How could I miss mentioning it when three men are pitching a tent literally under my desk, and I can't even get to a typewriter? And where else would that happen, except at Wyckoff's? . . . Sally Ferrebre, I understand, had some lovely things to say about me on her radio broadcast the other day. She is very kind and I am most appreciative. Sally is an exceedingly clever, most attractive girl. And isn't it nice that we feel this way about each other? There was a time when people in the same line of work just weren't expected to like each other—and all too often they very fondly didn't! . . . After a few hours at the home of Lida and Dr. John Gregory, I'm more "glass conscious" than ever. Mrs. Gregory has one of the most breathtaking collections of Spanish lace glass I've ever seen, not to mention the sitting hens, blue milk-glass, adorable chairs, and gold-edged crystal in her fabulous collection of antiques. Having neither the time nor wherewithal to collect such precious bits of beauty, I must content myself with the imported glass in our gift department. But this is lovely too, don't you agree?

MacCarthy Warns Of Modern 'Push-Button' Philosophy

By Leonard Randolph

SHANE MacCARTHY is a general Irishman (needless to say) with guts.

When President Eisenhower set out to find the right man to head up his Council on Youth Fitness, it seems obvious that someone with a knowledge of the small-scale controversies within the physical education field must have felt the need for a diplomat.

They found him in Dr. MacCarthy.

Listening to Shane MacCarthy on a lecture platform is often a little deceiving. He has certain points he wants to put across—about giving kids a place to play, putting the right emphasis on formalized sports etc.—but the points have a way of sneaking up on his audience.

He is a highly "personal" speaker and most of his talk Saturday before the sixth annual professional conference of the Health and Physical Education Department at East Stroudsburg State Teachers College was interspersed with comments on his five sons (Shane Jr., Kevin, Tim, Pat and Mike) and laugh-provoking "blarney" for the benefit of the attractive young girls in the audience. ("We've finally figured out that the only way we're going to get any daughters in the MacCarthy family is through the vicious method of marriage.")

Yet it was an address which, in its overall effect, could easily be described as hard-punching and challenging. His major concept was anything but new; it "dates back to Plato," he said.

When we talk about "fitness," the tall, muscular man said, we've got to think of fitness in all respects—the mathematical or artist must develop his body and the strong man should be devoted to music and philosophy.

In modern America, he said, there is a clear danger that machines may be turning men into "also rans"; the age of automation is causing "very simple but important fundamentals to become blurred." While we've hit full stride technologically, "man's nature—his body and soul—have not changed."

People don't want to walk any more, he said. They won't ride bicycles (being afraid of ridicule from their neighbors). They won't walk upstairs (elevators are generally handy). The push-button philosophy has started to take over.

The President's Council, he said, is "a healthy alert—not a false alarm." Whether it's in education or in family life, there is a tendency toward "softness" and a national alert is needed to head it off.

He urged those attending the conference to stop paying too much attention to "facilities" (the king-sized swimming pool, the multiple gymnastic equipment, the extras in physical education). "I'm more impressed by the will to use what facilities we have than I am by elaborate facilities which are often badly used or not used fully," he said.

"Don't consider a variety sports the same as physical fitness," he went on. "Let's remember that the championship team is good for the school but it covers less than six and one-half percent of the total student body."

"Don't allow the box office to determine what is a 'major sport' and what isn't," he said. "Fencing is just as important—or more—for some students as baseball or basketball or football."

Then MacCarthy hit at one of the recurring themes in his talk and in later discussions. He said: "Don't think that youth fitness can be bought with dollars or the dollar system. If we had floods of money from Washington, we couldn't do anything unless we changed the prevailing ideas in American communities today. What we need to do is spark the inner spirit of American towns and schools and... create the proper basic desires in both youth and adults to make them want to be physically, mentally, spiritually and morally fit."

"Let's use present facilities more—the State parks, the streets, the parking lots. We need to dramatize simple ideas and drive them home."

The speaker pointed out that the next Olympics games will be held in Rome. "Perhaps the theme, for America at least, in the next Olympics should be not so much 'Let's win at Rome' as 'Let's win at home,'" he said.

It was in the discussion period following his formal talk that some of Dr. MacCarthy's best points were made. One of them came when a member of the audience asked "what reaction" he'd had from his speech before the Inter-Collegiate Boxing Meet in Pocatello, Idaho. During that address MacCarthy came out in favor of the teaching of boxing skills in physical education programs—a recommendation which, on the surface, placed him at complete and controversial odds with U. S. pediatricians and some powerful physical and recreation education associations.

But MacCarthy's theory on boxing has no relationship to the variety of the sport most viewers get to know on television. Boxing, properly taught ("as the main art of self defense"), is no more dangerous than any other sport, he said Saturday. You can teach a boy how to punch a bag and skip rope in the elementary grades. Using facial masks and light gloves padded with sponge rubber instead of felt, you can cut the risk out of the game.

The speaker hurriedly emphasized that "when I talk about the teaching of boxing, I'm not talking about Golden Gloves." A lot of the hesitation about "body-contact sports" is due to "over-protection on the part of parents," he said.

Young men and women today are reaching "early maturity in an age of complexity," he said. If America is to keep its people sound and fit as it advances technically, "then the elementary school is the area that has a responsibility for giving the first touch of skills and attributes."

Later on he recalled that he had recommended once that New York City "give Fifth Avenue back to human beings on Sunday" because very few vehicles run on the street that day. "Let them use it for roller skating or walking. It'll lead them right to Central Park."

Other recent MacCarthy recommendations: That communities use parking lots as playgrounds for children; that families put outdoor basketball courts in their back yards; that families pay more attention to fitness within their own group.

But the main emphasis, he said, has to rest within the community and in a desire to make everyone physically fit. Coordinated action is needed for a program of this kind.

If the program is to succeed, he indicated, it should include a wide variety of things—roller skating, bicycle riding, walking, hiking, tennis, fencing, boxing as well as the more commonly accepted sports.

"There is too much of a tendency in our society now to think that fitness is formalized sport," Dr. MacCarthy said.

A man who wants to be physically fit can learn to walk instead of ride, for one thing, he said, in one of his final comments at the luncheon in his honor at Shawnee Inn.

Outside on the gracefully-rolling greens of the Shawnee Country Club course a group of golfers started out in the mid-afternoon sun.

Four of the six were riding "golf buggies."

ESSTC To Stress
Youth Fitness

A STUDENTS' committee on youth fitness will be born this week at East Stroudsburg State Teachers College.

It is a direct outgrowth of a weekend conference on fitness arranged by the college health and physical education department.

At that meeting Dr. Shane MacCarthy, director of President Eisenhower's Council on Youth Fitness, said that "increased automation in our society coupled with laziness can be our undoing as a nation."

Dr. MacCarthy called for alertness on the part of educators to the needs for building fitness "mentally, spiritually, physically, socially and morally."

As part of a solution to youth's needs he suggested creation of youth-directed committees or study groups. He emphasized that "to find solutions we will need the help of many individuals and many organizations."

Less than an hour after MacCarthy had made the suggestion, Genevieve Zimbar, acting head of the college department of health and physical education, announced at a luncheon in MacCarthy's honor at Shawnee Inn that such a committee would be created this week. Seated with Miss Zimbar at the head table was Dr. LeRoy J. Koehler, president of the college, who concurred in the announcement.

Miss Zimbar said that the committee will be "organized and directed by students at the college with herself as adviser. The committee will have as its primary aim the development of techniques in which community and education facilities may be fully utilized for youth fitness programs."

Dr. MacCarthy praised the college president "for his wholehearted cooperation and enlightened support" of the youth fitness movement. He said that "such instantaneous action on the part of a college is a long step toward the kind of educational community action we need."

Two State officials attending the convention reported that Gov. Leader is now attempting to set up a State-level program for youth fitness. They were Maurice E. Trusal, director of the State Bureau of Curriculum Development, representing Dr. Charles Boehm, head of the Department of Public Instruction and Dr. Othmar Wuenschel, acting chief of the Division of Health, Physical and Recreation Education in the DPI in Harrisburg.

Total attendance at Saturday's conference was estimated at 700. Included in the audience were health and physical education department heads from Allentown, Easton and numerous other adjoining communities served by the college and youth program directors from Scranton, Wilkes-Barre and elsewhere.

Also attending were a majority of the students in the college department program.

Dr. MacCarthy's address was the keynote feature of the conference. He was heard at 10 a. m. assembly in the college auditorium.

Main speaker at the afternoon sessions were Dr. Josephine Rathbone, association professor of health and physical education at Teachers College, Columbia University and her husband, Dr. Peter Karpovich, research professor of physiology at Springfield College.

Assisting Miss Zimbar in the coordination of the sixth annual conference of the local college department was Howard R. De-Nike. Among the department members who served as chairmen or hostesses were Anne L. Venezia, Helen Brown, James Reed, Morton Hochheiser, Edmund Shay, Katherine Griffith and Mary Whitenight. The Health and Physical Education Major Club, headed by Wilmont Smith, also aided in the conference planning.

Increase In Prices

PHILADELPHIA, May 12 (AP)—The Pennsylvania Railroad today announced the 15 per cent hike in first class passenger fares approved last month by the Interstate Commerce Commission will become effective on PRR lines next Wednesday.

Few things say "modern kitchen" the way a kitchen phone does!

What makes a kitchen modern? Stylish, functional cabinets, of course. A spacious refrigerator. A dishwasher. A disposal unit. An efficient range. Perhaps a wall oven. And—definitely a kitchen telephone!

The kitchen is headquarters for most housewives most of every day. That's why there are few conveniences so appreciated as an extension telephone just a reach away from any point in the room. It saves steps by the mile, helps prevent burnt meals, ends missed calls, makes food buying ever so much easier. Add this vital touch to your kitchen. You won't think twice about the pennies-a-day cost. And you can have your kitchen phone in any one of eight rich decorator colors, if you wish. Call our Business Office about it soon. Your kitchen won't be completely modern until you do.

THE HORSE racing bill in Pennsylvania is getting kicked around, according to Dale Fetrow, United States Trotting Association director, of District Eight.

Fetrow, a lifelong resident of the Keystone State and an admitted Republican, blames his own party for the apparent dying of the bill, known in legislative circles as Senate Bill 366.

Fetrow has gone so far as to send out mimeographed copies of a story, presumably penned by him, to sports editors throughout the state.

He claims that Senate Bill 366, a referendum deciding the will of the electorate — you and I — survived the assault of Governor Leader and was passed by one vote in the Senate.

The bill was then sent to the House and referred to the Law and Order Committee. But, according to Fetrow, Harry Naugle, a Republican of Somerset County, has not called a meeting of his group for the bill's consideration.

Fetrow feels that both sides — GOP and Democrats — would like to take credit for killing a bill that would give the people of Pennsylvania a right to vote on this issue in November.

The Track Association aide believes that the action, or rather no action, on the bill is amusing since it means that Democratic Governor Leader is being backed by political "enemies" — Republicans.

The release from Fetrow, says the interpretation of the bill has been misleading. It has been called a Horse Race Bill, a Gambling Bill, but Fetrow says it merely states a referendum shall be held to find the will of the people regarding pari-mutuel wagering on horse racing in the state of Pennsylvania. The results of the referendum would not be binding on the Legislature. If Keystoneians want horse racing, legislation would still have to be enacted.

But as Fetrow points out, neither the committee, now holding the bill, or the governor would rather not see the step taken, opening the door to a electorate vote.

Now there has been many things said about the pari-mutuel bill in the past. So far as is known the Church and outside interests have been the chief road blocks.

The explanation of the church needs no pin-pointing here, however, the stand of outside interests, mainly men guiding the fortunes of tracks in New Jersey, Delaware, New York and Maryland — our closest neighbors — are looking at it at a business angle.

It is no secret that hundreds of thousands of dollars are sneaking their way annually into the racing coffers of New York, New Jersey, Maryland and Delaware.

It would be a blow, financially, if this trail of dough were stopped in Pennsylvania, where it actually started out from. Thus, outsiders special interest.

Horse racing is a sport, like baseball, football and basketball. In fact it is the oldest sport in America. Gambling is a part of that sport, just like people wager on fights, baseball and football and basketball.

One thing in the horse racing's favor, gambling is controlled in states where the pari-mutuels adorn the tracks.

Now we don't say Pennsylvania needs horse racing and whether horse racing needs Pennsylvania. But we do feel, the will of the people should prevail over this matter, like any other problem which troubles a few or many.

It seems in this particular instance, the people haven't a chance to answer their feelings, whether it be for or against. Dictating the morals of all by a few doesn't necessarily mean that they speak for all.

Strouds, Lake Harmony Pace PML 4-Way Knot For Second Spot As Bushkill Drops First

THE RACE in the Pocono Mountain League turned into a two-way fight for first place and a four-way tussle for second following action in the amateur baseball circuit yesterday.

The Strouds and Lake Harmony were all tied up in the unblemished records after the Strouds squeaked out a 3-2 win over Anomalink, and Lake Harmony defeated an injury-riddled Bushkill nine, 9-7.

The loss dropped previously unbeaten Bushkill into second along with Saylorburg who dumped Barrett, 7-3; West End, conquerors of Kunkletown, 7-2; and Tannersville, winners over Readers, 7-6.

West End Wins 2nd
KUNKLETOWN — West End poured across five runs in the fifth inning and they held up for a 7-2 triumph over Kunkletown here yesterday.

It was the second PML win in three starts for the Enders, while the loss was Kunkletown's third straight.

R. Burkett and Conklin shared the hill chores for West End with the former getting credit for the win. Howard and Smith combined on the mound for Kunkletown with Howard the loser.

Paces Attack

Star For Lakers
SAYLORSBURG — Gil Overpeck's steady pitching and hitting and Will Bonser's bat spearheaded Saylorburg to a 7-3 win over Barrett here yesterday.

Overpeck, in hurling his 2nd straight victory, scattered eight hits, and was only in trouble two innings — the first and sixth — when the visitors scored all their tallies.

Will Bonser, one of three Bonser's in the Saylorburg lineup, tripled and singled twice. Bob Bonser also had a good day at the plate, connecting for a three-bagger and double and driving in three runs. Overpeck also chipped in offensively with three one-basers.

Barrett grabbed a 1-0 lead in the first, but Saylorburg tied it up with one in the second, and went ahead 3-1 with two in the fourth. Barrett reknotted the score in the sixth before Saylorburg went out in front for good with two in their half of the sixth and two more in the seventh.

Matter and Correll collaborated on the mound for Barrett with Miller taking the loss.

SHAWNEE — Dr. F. A. Winchenbach of Bath, Me., a top contender for the Shawnee Invitational championship flight golf title for three years in a row, finally made it yesterday by defeating Bob Hoag of Columbus, Ohio, 3 and 2 in the finals at the Shawnee Country Club.

Winchenbach, a pacesetter during the three days play, played good golf in subduing Hoag, a comparative newcomer to the list of title aspirants.

In first flight play, Monty Tarini of Columbus, Ohio, grabbed off top laurels by besting Dr. Tom McWilliams, Jr., of Scranton, one up.

John R. Prickett of Philadelphia — co-chairman of the 34th annual tournament — came in one-up over Robert Lano of Woodside, N. Y., to win second flight honors.

Top Dr. Magann
The third flight victor was Dr. Alworth of Glen Ridge, N.J., who took the measure of Dr. Edmund Magann of Mountaintop, one-up.

In the fourth flight, Joseph Schlegel of Nazareth came out on top by defeating Dr. John Gaffney of Danbury, Conn., one-up.

Richard Alley of Philadelphia, co-chairman of the event, captured sixth flight honor by edging David Levintritt of New York City, 3 and 2.

Varsity 'E' Cards
VARSITY "E" CLUB of East Stroudsburg will hold its regular monthly meeting at the Tom-X Ranch Thursday, starting at 7:30 p.m.

Nomination of officers for the 1957-58 year will highlight the session. President Reg Nauman will be in charge of the session.

Team Rosters Set Up In Eastburg LL

PLAYERS WERE DRAWN and placed on teams in the East Stroudsburg — night and day — Little League Saturday at a meeting of managers, circuit officials. President Jack Kist was in charge of the session.

KIST, in releasing the rosters of both leagues, said that if an error was made, or a name omitted, players affected should call him at his home at 3508.

Kist also announced that there will be a meeting of all teams and coaches at the East Stroudsburg Junior High Field today, starting at 6:15 p. m.

Need Umpires
The league also appealed last night for umpires to work games in the day-time league which starts its games at 4 p. m. Six adults are needed to officiate in this loop. Persons wishing further information are urged to contact Kist.

At number four, Denny Grubben won the first set 6-4, and led 4-3 in the second in his match against Pete Andross when the rains washed it off the books. Lee Bolmer had dropped the first 3-6 to Dick Rangstrom of Ryder but rallied to win the second at 6-2 before his match, too, succumbed to the weather.

East Stroudsburg journeys to Scranton University to tilt with the Miners today.

Parkland Ties Wilson In L-N Meet
ALLENTOWN — A driving finish in the mile relay earned Parkland High an unprecedented tie with Wilson Boro High here Saturday.

Behind 46-41, the Parkland quartet of Roy Miller, Barry Cassel, Bob Royer and Dick Schaffer captured the five point event to knot the score at 46-all as the all-day Lehigh-Northampton League Track and Field Meet drew to an end. Nazareth took third with 27 1/2, while Hellertown finished fourth with 6 1/2. Pen Argyl, entering its first league meet, did not score.

One Record
The track events on the rain-drenched field were slow but close. Nazareth's Larry Mengel set a new record for the school, tossing the shot 45 feet, 10 1/2 inches.

Schaffer made the difference for Parkland as he took the 880-yard event in addition to providing the finish as anchor-man in the mile event.

Babe Ruth Loop To Hold Tryouts
PRESIDENT Doug Schoonover announced last night that player tryouts for the Stroudsburg-Barrett Babe Ruth League will be held at Gordon Giffels Field, Stroudsburg, starting at 6 p. m.

All candidates for Babe Ruth ball are urged to report on time with their equipment.

Cincy Runs Skein
CHICAGO, May 12 (AP) — Cincinnati's hopped up Redlegs smashed Chicago Cubs, 7-5 and 7-1, today and ran their winning streak to 12 straight games — all on the road.

The Redlegs blew a three-run lead and came from behind to win the opener and then rode the four-hit pitching of Don Gross to capture the second game.

The 12 straight victories tied Cincinnati's modern record set in 1939 when the Redlegs copped the pennant.

Northampton Retains LV Track Crown

EMMAUS—Defending champion, Northampton High, retained its Lehigh Valley League track-field crown by sloshing to victory in the circuit's annual meet here Saturday. Rain fell throughout the event which was witnessed by only 200 diehards.

Whitehall with 24, followed by Palmerston with 18; Lehigh, 17; Emmaus, 9; and Slattington, 7.

Last Event Decides

The final result was decided in the last event in which Northampton's relay team of Charles Kuntzleman, Don Koehensch, Tom Chuss and Frank Marth swept to victory over second place Whitehall.

Colo Inks Fifth Grid Brown Pact

CLEVELAND, May 10—Tackle Don Colo signed his fifth contract with the Cleveland Browns today, but Coach Paul Brown said Colo will not retain the captaincy he has held since 1954.

Brown denied that Colo's activity in the National Football League Players Assn., which club owners refused to recognize as a bargaining agent, had anything to do with the change in captaincy.

Don is married now and naturally spends less time with the players off the field," Brown explained. "So we feel it will work out better with some rotation system. . . . We haven't decided definitely on anyone yet."

Also signed by the Browns today was Tom Gulian, 23, of Steubenville who played for Mississippi State in 1952-53.

Gulian, 6 foot 4½, 260-pound defensive tackle, has been in the army the last two years.

TV Show May Originate In Shawnee

IF FRED WARING and the Columbia Broadcasting System work out a final agreement, they'll put Shawnee-on-the-Delaware on the national Summer television map this year.

CBS officials sent out the good word from New York yesterday that Waring may return to TV as a six-week replacement for the Garry Moore Show.

It would mark Waring's return to regular TV after a three-year hiatus. During those three years he has concentrated on production of occasional and highly-successful special musical programs for TV. Most of the famous star band and chorus leader's time has been devoted to presentation of a revue, "Here! Hear!" and other productions on coast-to-coast tours. During the Summer he directs and supervises the overall activities of the Waring Music Workshop at the former Castle Inn in Delaware Water Gap.

Announcement

The first announcement by CBS officials on the possible Waring show indicated last night that the six-week series could originate in Shawnee. There was a word or two of caution in the announcement, however.

Network spokesmen said that they are now attempting to make certain that "piping" the television show over the Poconos into main network headquarters in New York could be done within the budget estimate for the show.

Columbia said it was highly pleased and satisfied with the idea of presenting the show from Shawnee where Waring owns and operates Shawnee Inn, one of the country's best-known resort hotels.

As things shaped up over the weekend, it looked fairly certain that Waring and his Pennsylvanians would be back in network TV this Summer. Their schedule would call for a show Mondays through Thursdays from 10 to 10:30 a. m. and from 10 to 11:30 a. m. on Fridays.

Waring has been one of television's most successful performers in past years. Before that he produced a long-run radio show.

Macmillan Agrees With Adenauer

BONN, Germany, May 12 (AP)—British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan and Chancellor Konrad Adenauer today pronounced themselves "in full agreement" on aims—but it was clear their talks in Bonn had produced no full meeting of minds on how to build Western defenses.

Macmillan, winding up a three-day visit, told newsmen his conference with Adenauer had not led him to reconsider Britain's decision to cut back her troop strength in West Germany.

Informal sources said Adenauer had sought to induce Macmillan to "reappraise" his plan to shift the British defense program to heavy concentration on atomic deterrents.

Britain already has started withdrawing 30,000 troops from West Germany.

Pocono High School Lists Names Of Honor Students

Band Mothers Mark Season Of Success

OFFICIAL AUDIT for the year showed this weekend that the East Stroudsburg Band Mothers Assn. had one of its most successful seasons.

According to the auditors' report the association collected $5,877.29 during the year. Out of this $3,701.25 came from the uniform drive conducted by the mothers' group and the remaining $2,176.04 was earned through various sales and special events such as rummage sales, a teen-age dance, sale of brooms, light bulbs, Christmas and Easter candy packages.

The organization's audit showed that it had a $580.06 balance in the bank in June, 1956 when the new fiscal year began.

The following expenditures are listed: To East Stroudsburg National Bank for a $500 series J savings bond at $360; cost of candy, $308.16; cost of brooms, $63.40; cards for notices, $29.82; $102 to the Varsity E Club and miscellaneous expenses. Total expenditures for the year: $1,345.82. Balance in the bank as of May 8, 1957—$5,112.53.

In addition to this balance the group also has 15 government bonds now at maturity value of $2,700 in a saving account, according to Mrs. Myrtle Kintner, association president.
